I am so very sorry for your loss.

I would have been to see Lex but did not here about her passing until today. I remember we went out once & the band played her favorite song, how we danced! and sitting at the table by the wood burning stove, the dog laying at her feet, the waste basket in the bathroom for used paper, and the great velveta cheese dip that I still make and think always of her when I do. I only wish we had made more memories together. Lex has and always will be in my heart, her laugh, her smile, the whispers so the guys couldn't hear. If there is anything I can do for any of you do not hesitate to call. Lex may have left in body but not in spirit. She will always be with us.

Lex was and sill is a great lady and I am privileged to have known her.##imported-begin##Cathie Cook##imported-end##
