“ Drew, Travis & Family,
We all loved Alex, such a terrible loss. This young lady was not only beautiful, talented & smart but had so much potential to grow & help others. May you, your family & friends cherish her memory as I know I will. I still remember the little girl begging to go home with me to spend the night, eating popcorn in bed & watching movies. That is my memory I choose to cherish.

Carla and Travis
I just found out about Alex and I am so very sorry. She was such a beautiful young lady with the funniest sense of humor. I still remember all the trips on the river and the evenings at the river camps; some of the best times I had. I am terribly saddened by this and know I will say a prayer for you and your family. Please find strength in each other to get through this. She was an incredible person. God bless all of you.

“ Every death is a loss. Alex's death is a genuine tragedy -- not because of how she died, but because of who she was and what she would have been. Alex had a spark that many people do not have, but a spark needs care and attention to become a flame. There will always be a very specific place in my heart for Alex's spark and the blazing flame that would have been.

“ I only met Alex a few times but she was always radiant, sharing her smile and positive energy. She was a beautiful soul, you could just tell. May god keep her with him in his protective and loving arms. I pray for peace and the healing hand of our savior to help her family through this painful time and the many days to come. May they be able to find a way to go on until they see her again. Amen
