“ I was so saddened to hear of your loss. Danny was my teacher at St Joseph in the city. He was one of my favorites, so wonderful with the kids and always had a great sense of humor.. He has crossed my mind a lot over the last few decades. My sympathy to all of his loved ones. He will be greatly missed.

“ Becky and I loved Danny. I knew him from childhood....Becky knew him from high school. Our first meeting as boys around age 9 was confrontational as I and my friends Ray and Russel were naturally to be seen by Danny as transgressors there in Danny's woods daring to come there unknown and uninvited to build ourselves a fort?.... or was it to occupy his fort? (lean-to of logs limbs and leaves) there in the wooded territory not far from his family's home. Long story short...we all ended up friends after doing all the Indian wrestling contests where Danny beat me and Ray but could not beat Russel. We enjoyed successive pow-wows there at the fort and other encounters as friends down through the years thereafter. We miss Danny our one-of-a-kind rough and tumble man with ever loving heart.

The memories from growing up with Danny are countless. His wit, story telling, teaching, generosity ...hilarity...there are not enough positive words. I grew up quick in that crowd. I looked forward to every shooting day, hunting trip or fishing more if I knew he was coming . Everyone did.
God bless and RIP my friend.
