“ To the Schmitt family: I was heartbroken to hear of Gene's passing. He was the first person I worked with on the night shift in the pressroom at the Courier when I was an apprentice. His gentle ways and sense of humor made me feel more comfortable in an environment that was not initially very welcome to having a female press operator in the mix, and I will forever be grateful for his kindness towards me from my first day on the job until the day he retired. He was affectionately called "Geno" by the press operators, and I can still hear him say "Amen to that," which was his trademark comment he made whenever he agreed with you. He will be terribly missed, but I hope you can take comfort in knowing that he is now free and home in the special place that the Lord has prepared for and promised to all of His children.##imported-begin##Dianna L.
