“ Hey mom,

These past few days have been the hardest days of my life. All I can do is sit here and think of all the things I wish I would have done differently. The things I wish I would have said. I find myself talking to you now more than ever and it hurts so much not to hear you answer. You were the best mom in the world. Others didn't see it and there were times I found it hard to see but deep down I always knew. You were always there for me and this whole family. Every time I said I want something you just up and bought it.

It's starting to thunder out here now. I think of all those times you said "The weather will never be too bad because I'm here." Now who will stop the storm?

Going through your things yesterday and today, I keep finding all of the things little Dave and I made you growing up. Report cards, birthday cards, and school work. So many pictures of us. Wish there were more of you. No one can ever say you didn't love us. No one can ever say you weren't a good mother. You deserved so much more than what this life gave you. I'll never understand it. I take so much comfort and have so much joy knowing you never have to hurt or cry anymore. You can watch over all of us whenever you want. You can be with us like you always wanted to. We will have to stay on our best behavior now that's for sure.

I promise I'll never forget the things you taught me or the memories we made. They will be forever burned into my heart. I will never forget you cooking, your smell, your laugh, your smile, or your crazy way of doing things. I'll never forget you and I won't let anyone else either.

I love you mom. I love you so much and I hope you can finally really see that

“My mother was an outstanding person. She was beautiful and the best mom you could ask for. Given specific circumstance, she made the best out of everything she was dealt. She raised beautiful children, who admired her dearly. She took care of the family despite any drama or problematic differences between them, she loved and would do anything for them. My mom worked as a certified medical assistant (CMA), and became disabled. She loved Metallica, Ted Nugent, And various others. She enjoyed Sweet tea and Dr. Pepper. She had a major influence on me with music, which is how I enjoy the same she did. She has a cat named Belle, who she loved unconditionally. My mother was a short tempered woman but she had a heart of gold and would help anybody in need. I love my mother and I'd do anything to hear her once more. She was a beautiful mom, and a perfect one at that. I miss her dearly, and I'll always love my mother. I know she is pain free now, and she is watching over everyone and she is also with all of our hearts. I love you mom.

Your son.

“ I didn't know Sandy as well as you most but in the time I did know her she was a very outgoing kind lady. She was the first one to here my son caleb say his first words when she baby sat and all those days and nights she spent playing with her kids. I admired her for how she was a mom not making the least out of a day and always making time for her kids. Regardless if they were fighting or not she showed she loved her kids and grand kids unconditionally. I wish I would of gotten to know her and be good friends. Just remember she loved you all I'm sure and if u ever smell her or hear her favorite song that's her saying hi and if u happen to fine a penny on the ground that's a kiss from an angle and I'm sure she will be watching you all from above. Hugs and prays to u all.

“ My last conversation with Sandy was a fond disagreement as to whether Dwight Yokam looked best with or without a hat. I'll miss her sarcastic wit. I'll remember with love the little red headed imp that she was as a child. She gave us lots of entertainment as she grew up. Love and prayers to all her family, and a special love to Donna and Leo(my sister and more brother than brother in law)

“ Oh my dear sister we did not have enough time together. But at least we shared your last night walking and talking about our kids and how proud we are of them and our grandchildren growing up so fast. I love you so much Sandy and and I want you to know that the promise I made to you that night I will keep it I swear..You are missed so much I waited for our usual morning phone call today and last night I found myself waiting for you to call and say good night. I thank god for giving me such a wonderful and loving sister who would do anything for me at any time, I am so glad we were so close and we always will be. I really struggling with you not being here but your wonderful son Carl and daughter Rebekkah are such a great help. My girls are helping me as much as they can and of course our Loving and most special parents I would be lost without them. And I don't want to forget our Butler Rick.
