“ I went to St Joe grade school and Mater Dei highschool with Sharon. Sharon was kinda tall and strong with reddish brown hair if my memory serves me. She had a robust personality and didn't need assertiveness training! Lol! She enjoyed life and wanted to get the most out of every opportunity. We both came from large families. The fact that she asked not to wear black at her funeral is spot on! She would want the funeral to be a celebration of life! I wanna say sharon liked the song, "double dutch bus" from 1980 but I could be wrong. May God be glorified in her life and through her death. May she share in the resurrection of the dead on the last day. May we see her again in the kingdom of heaven where Jesus lives and reigns forever!

“ I met Sharon at Imperial Plastics (Berry Global) back in the early 80's. We both started around the same time and we became instant friends. We worked in the molding department together but she kept getting bumped to the printing department and at first she didn't want to work in that department but then she met the love of her life, Ken! Well, she finally got enough seniority to not have to work in the printing department anymore but by this time she didn't want to leave the printing department. She loved working with Ken, she never worked in the molding department again. Sharon is the most beautiful, loving, and fun person I have known in my lifetime. She made a deep impression in my life and I'm so fortunate to have known such a beautiful person. With deepest condolences and prayers, God, gives you strength to get through this very heart breaking time in your lives. God bless!
